THE CHABAD AGENDA FOR GLOBAL DOMINATION

The Experience of a Chabad Defector

The following information is derived from the personal account of a former member of the Chabad movement. The individual's involvement began at the age of twenty in 2005. While visiting New York City, they were introduced to the movement by an emissary and invited to "770" in Brooklyn, the group's headquarters. Over the subsequent four years, the individual became a dedicated follower, participating in rituals and meetings that shaped their understanding of the organization's inner workings and long-term goals.

The Nature and Mission of Chabad

Chabad is described by defectors as a supremacist missionary cult with the primary objective of establishing total Jewish superiority and the eventual enslavement of non-Jews, referred to as "Goyim". A central tenet of the organization is the commandment of "Breaking Through," which involves creating the conditions necessary for Zionist world domination.

To achieve this, Chabad trains its youth to become emissaries who spread this ideology to Jewish populations worldwide, particularly those who are not currently practicing the religion. Under the leadership of Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson, the movement established a vast network of nearly 4,000 institutions across more than 1,000 cities in 100 countries.

Theological Foundations and the Treatment of Non-Jews

The movement's ideological framework is rooted in the "Tania," a central text that posits a fundamental spiritual hierarchy. According to this doctrine:

- The Jewish Soul: Jews are considered divine "Gods in the flesh," and the entire universe was created solely for them.
- The Non-Jewish Soul: Non-Jews are viewed as animals without souls, or as possessing demonic souls originating from unholy spheres.
- Comparative Value: The doctrine suggests that a single fingernail of a Jewish person holds more value than the entire non-Jewish population of the world.

The ultimate vision for the future involves a world where Jews are the supreme masters. In this envisioned society, it is claimed that every individual Jew will be served by as many as 2,800 gentile slaves.

Political Influence and the Globalist Agenda

The sources allege that Chabad exerts significant influence over prominent world leaders, including Donald Trump, Vladimir Putin, and Benjamin Netanyahu, who are described as members or associates of the movement. These figures are claimed to be facilitating global conflicts to make a "Satanic" New World Order appear inevitable.

This agenda is linked to the vision of Israel's founder, David Ben Gurion, who sought to place Jerusalem at the center of a One World Government. Key elements of this plan include:

- The Supreme Court of Mankind: The establishment of a United Nations shrine in Jerusalem to serve as a supreme court for all continents.
- Financial Control: The involvement of the Rothschild family in funding the Israeli Supreme Court, which features occult symbolism like the "All-Seeing-Eye".
- Global Enslavement: The use of international politics and banking to fulfill messianic prophecies of a Jewish-controlled New World Order.

Social Degradation and Control

The organization is accused of using Cabala and other methods to weaken nations by eroding their social foundations. This process involves breaking down the structures of race, family, and traditional spiritual belief systems. By promoting materialism and degrading these core values, the movement aims to make populations easier to control and less likely to resist enslavement.

Reasons for Departure

The individual who provided this account eventually left Chabad after concluding that the movement's focus on hatred and supremacy was born of human ego and fear rather than divine guidance. They suggest that the current attacks on various nations and the concept of "White genocide" are direct results of this racist ideology.
